General Procedures and Instructions

An employer may take a nonrefundable credit against individual income tax, corporate franchise tax or fiduciary tax based on amounts paid to persons with disabilities who work for the employer.

The credit applies only to the wages paid by an employer to individuals with disabilities. The credit authorized by law shall be in an amount equal to 10 percent of the gross wages earned in the first six months of the taxable year by the employee with disabilities; and 20 percent of the gross wages earned in the remainder of the taxable year by the employee with disabilities from the employer seeking the tax credit.

For example, if an employee with disabilities begins working with an employer March 1, and the employer is a calendar year filer, the employer shall calculate its credit using the following steps: (1) multiply the wages earned by the employee from March 1 through August 31 by 10 percent; (2) multiply the wages earned by the employee from September 1 through December 31 by 20 percent; and (3) add those two amounts.

For purposes of this credit, individuals with disabilities are defined as individuals who : (1) have been receiving services from a day training program or from a supported employment program for persons with disabilities, which is certified by the Department of Human Services as a qualifying program, for at least six consecutive months prior to working for the employer who is claiming the tax credit; or (2) were eligible for services from the Division of Services for People with Disabilities at the time the individual began working for the employer claiming the tax credit.

An employer qualifies for this credit only if the individual with a disability: (1) works in this state for at least six months in a taxable year for the employer; and (2) is paid at least minimum wage by the employer. The credit is limited to $3,000 per person during the taxable year. The credit is allowed only for the first two years the individual with a disability is employed by the employer.

Credit amounts greater than Utah tax liability in the tax year in which credit is earned may be carried forward to each of the following two tax years. Carryforward credits shall be applied against the tax liability of any year before the application of any credits earned in the tax year on a first-earned first-used basis.
